RNCM Conducting Weekend

Friday 12 May – Sunday 14 May 2017

The RNCM is pleased to invite applications for three days of dynamic master classes with internationally acclaimed conductors and RNCM Conducting Faculty members Mark Heron and Clark Rundell and featuring an exciting partnership with Manchester Camerata.

Now in its 12th year, this weekend course reflects the core belief that underpins all of the College's world-class conducting programmes: conductors learn by conducting other musicians. All participants can expect to conduct a combination of rehearsal pianists, chamber ensembles and orchestras on at least five occasions over the three days.

Orchestras and ensembles for the first two days will be students from the RNCM and the University of Manchester. On the final day, 50% of the orchestra will be members of Manchester Camerata, one of the UK's leading professional chamber orchestras, sitting side-by-side with selected RNCM students. The Camerata principal players will take an active role in those sessions, providing feedback to participants alongside the course faculty.

The weekend is an ideal opportunity for those considering applying for the RNCM's MMus and Junior Fellow programmes to find out more about the integral role that conducting plays in the life of the College. We also welcome experienced musicians and educators for whom conducting is part of a wider career in music, and those involved in amateur music-making.

The course is open to both active conductors and observers and will focus on key practical issues including conducting technique, interpretation, rehearsal and preparation. All sessions will be filmed and online files made available to all participants.

Repertoire will include:

Gustav Mahler Symphony No 5

Ludwig van Beethoven Piano Concerto No 3

Joseph Haydn Symphony No 101 'The Clock'

Igor Stravinsky Soldier's Tale

RNCM Conducting Weekend

Friday 12 May – Sunday 14 May 2017

ACTIVE PLACES

A maximum of 12 active participants will be invited. To apply for an active place, you are invited to submit a brief CV and a link to an online video of your conducting (YouTube, Vimeo etc). This information should be sent with the completed application form before Friday 3 March 2017. Successful participants will be notified no later than 11 March.

VENUE

The RNCM is located in Manchester City Centre and is easily accessible from Manchester Airport and local train stations. For further information on how to find the RNCM visit www.rncm.ac.uk/about/find-us. The RNCM's catering facilities will be open during the event.

OBSERVER PLACES

Observers are also invited to watch all sessions and to participate in group discussions. This opportunity will be of interest to conductors of any level or to anyone who is interested in how gesture and body language can be used in leadership. It would be useful to receive completed registration forms along with payment by Friday 24 March 2017 if possible, but observers are able to turn up and pay on the day.

RNCM Conducting Weekend

Friday 12 May – Sunday 14 May 2017

MARK HERON

Mark Heron studied at the Royal Northern College of Music and in international master classes with Neeme and Paavo Järvi and Jorma Panula. Mark is a member of the conducting faculty at the RNCM where he works with the full range of the College's orchestras and ensembles and teaches conducting within the Junior Fellow and Masters programmes. He is Music Director of the Nottingham Philharmonic, Liverpool Mozart, and Manchester University Symphony Orchestras. As a guest conductor Mark works regularly with professional orchestras and ensembles in the UK, Spain, Finland, Estonia, Germany, Portugal and Israel including the BBC Philharmonic, Royal Liverpool Philharmonic and Psappha. Mark also teaches conducting at the University of Manchester where over the last 3 years he has developed a unique undergraduate programme which has produced talents such as Duncan Ward and Jamie Phillips.

CLARK RUNDELL

Clark Rundell is Director of Contemporary Music and Head of Conducting at the RNCM, and Artistic Director of the Royal Liverpool Philharmonic's new music Group, Ensemble 10/10. He studied trombone and conducting at Northwestern University, Chicago, and was subsequently awarded a Junior Fellowship to study conducting with Timothy Reynish at the RNCM. He regularly conducts the Royal Liverpool Philharmonic Orchestra, with whom he made his début in 1987, as well as the BBC Philharmonic, BBC Scottish, BBC Symphony Orchestra, English Chamber Orchestra, London Symphony Orchestra, Philharmonia Orchestra, and Schoenberg/ASKO Ensemble.

MANCHESTER CAMERATA

Manchester Camerata is one of the UK's leading chamber orchestras, renowned for dynamic performances, innovative collaborations and pioneering Learning and Participation work. Founded in 1972, the orchestra is home to some of the finest musicians in the world and uses music in innovative ways to redefine what an orchestra can do. Collaborating with some of the world's most exceptional artists, Manchester Camerata is always looking to create immersive experiences that bring audiences and participants even closer to the music. The great Hungarian musician, Gábor Takács-Nagy, is in his fourth season as Music Director, and is hailed for his communicative powers with audiences. Manchester Camerata's pioneering Learning and Participation programme uses music to promote positive change and personal social development across three specialist areas of expertise: young people in schools, health and wellbeing, and our youth programme.
